Typically, youth can stay there for from a few hours up to 30 days. The facility is being renovated to meet the requirements for an STRTP. It will then no longer be used as an emergency refuge for abused and neglected children. Those children needing emergency shelter will go to the Boundy Home in Foster City, which can accommodate up to 6 (dependency only) youth at a time.

Comments

General comments or concerns that should be noted that haven't already been addressed?: I have inspected this facility several times over the last few years. I have always been impressed by the staff and the relationship they seem to establish with those in their care. Youth have always expressed that they feel safe and cared for, which is critical for these young people who have been removed from neglectful or abusive homes and are, almost certainly, traumatized by their circumstances. Staff are to be commended for making the Receiving Home a real refuge for these youth.

My only concern is whether the Foster City facility will be sufficient to meet these children's needs in the future.
